UPPER BURMAH has now been a British possession for five years, the date of th proclamation of annexation being the 1st January, 1886. The results have amply justified the step then taken. The Rangoon Gazette makes the departure of Sir Charles CROSTHWAITE, the Chief Commissioner, the occasion for a review of the progress made the different banks, are published in Saturday's both in the upper and lower provinces, and the judgment pronounced is an entirely favourable one. Order has been firmly established and districts which had been in the latter years of the Burmese monarchy a prey to ducoits are now as peaceful and free from crime as any district in India. To have accomplished work such as this in the brief space of five years, during four of which Sir CHABLES CROSTHWAITE has held the reins of Govern ment in Burmah, ieg our contemporary just! observes, an achievement which may well be regarded by Britons with pride and pleasure. The country has been opened up by the construction of the railway to Mandalay and by many excellent roads, and the growth of the public revenues, which has exceeded the most sanguine expectations, is a sure indication of the increasing prosperity of the people.

Under any system withen preponderating nfluence must of course be British, an he Chinese residents themselves would, and think, desire that it should be so. The cise constitution of the proposed Municipality is, however, a matter of detail to be fissussed subsequently; the first thing is to secure a recognition of the principle of self-government, and the year in which the Colony enters on its second half-century of existence seems a favourable time for once more pressing the subject on the attention of the Government; A. NOW ON SALE. he rate of INPERIAL QUARTO. ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PROPUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical services this Work stants unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to axpress the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises here given in extenso. Each and every word is for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carofully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, schieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those wast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16.000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac-Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applihave one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as 26.-Alica Memo. Respital many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub- 41 -Adamson, Bell & Co. For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its 47 — Do., E. B. Kingsolere pages enables a person who understands English 48 — Do. — The Eyris to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives hemselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-It comprises upwards of two thousand large £40,000
